

CUH declared one of the best apprenticeship employers in the country

19 November 2014

The prestigious Top 100 Apprenticeship Employers list, which is compiled annually by the National Apprenticeship Service in partnership with City & Guilds, recognises excellence in businesses that employ apprentices.

from the employment and skills arena for its

Over 600 employees at Cambridge University

Hospital have completed Apprenticeships since the programme started.

Kate Greenwood from the Work Opportunities team said: “We are very proud of our diverse apprenticeship scheme and the opportunities for career progression that it offers to existing, new and potential employees. Apprenticeships are key in the motivation and development of our highly skilled workforce. It is an honour to be recognised in the Top 100 Apprenticeship Employers List, as well as winning the Macro Apprenticeship Employer of the Year Award for the region again this year, since also previously winning in 2012.”