Histopathologists

There are five Consultant Histopathologists working in conjunction with the Cambridge Breast Unit. Our role is to examine the biopsies and surgical specimens taken in the clinic and in theatre, look at the tissue down a microscope, and feedback the diagnosis and other information important for planning patient care to our clinical colleagues at the multi-disciplinary team meetings. The work we do is very much behind the scenes, but we still play an important role in the management of Breast patients here at Addenbrooke's.
