

Team effort achieves accreditation

26 March 2020

This is a prestigious designation which is only given to the top 20 cancer centres in Europe, including NKI in Amsterdam, L'Institut Curie and Gustave Roussy in Paris, and the Christie in Manchester.

The accreditation covers both the quality of the clinical cancer services in CUH and our neighbours at Royal Papworth, and all the research activities of the Cancer Centre, from basic to clinical research.

Simon Oberst, Director of Clinical Development of the Cancer Research UK Cambridge Centre, said: “The Report from OECl particularly commends the quality of multidisciplinary team working and leadership of the CUH Cancer Services, and also the involvement of patients in the co-creation of services through the Cancer Patient Partnership Group. It describes the Centre’s cancer research as world-class, strikingly innovative, and ambitiously collaborative across disciplines.”

Cancer centre leaders applauded all the clinicians, researchers, and administrators who helped make the peer review another success.
