Small bowel team

With a combined experience of over 20 years in transplant nursing, the team comprises of four specialist nurses. Their role is to support patients with complex gastrointestinal failure and liver disease requiring transplant from assessment through to a transplant, and also coordinate life long follow up.

As an international centre of excellence for small bowel and multivisceral transplantation, the team at Addenbrooke’s accept referrals from the UK and Europe, working in close conjunction with three other centres in the country which make up the National Adult Small Intestinal Transplant (NASIT) forum.
