

About the Skull Base service

Cambridge University Hospitals is one of the largest skull base units in Europe. We offer a comprehensive skull base service integrating lateral, anterior and central skull base in one multidisciplinary team of experts in the field. This ensures a personalised experience for patients, who are provided with a balanced view of their management options and supported through the decision making process.

We are a national centre for the assessment and treatment of skull base tumours. We have a dedicated team who deal with all aspects of assessment, surgery, radiotherapy and follow-on care.